Chapter 371

Look at that sweet smile. Did your husband send you a message?"

Jasmine teased her best friend.

She was happy when she saw Serenity and Mr. York getting closer to each other. She was looking forward to the two having a wedding soon so she could be the bridesmaid at their wedding banquet.

"Our guest room doesn't have a bed and cabinet yet. He received a bonus and transferred fifteen thousand for me to buy a bed, closet, bedding, and whatnot.

"Mrs. Lane, I'll take you shopping after Sonny has his afternoon nap, and that'll be after lunch. They're for you, so you should pick them out yourself."

Mrs. Lane laughed. "I'm not picky. I'll be fine with just having a place to stay." "That won't do. You have to live comfortably. Your boss gave us money to buy stuff for you, so we don't have to scrimp and save for him. Pick furniture that's of good quality."

Serenity thought that if Mrs. Lane did a good job, it meant a long term employment relationship for them. They would be living together like a family, so they could not treat her unfairly. Looking at the time, Serenity asked Elisa, "Are you staying for lunch?"

Elisa remembered that she would no longer be going to Wiltspoon Hotel to wait for Zachary, but she did not want to go home either. Thus, she answered casually, "Sure, I'll stay for lunch."

Serenity told Mrs. Lane to cook for one more person.

"I'll go cook now, Ms. Hunt."

Serenity watched her nephew play with toys happily and said, "Go ahead. I'll look after Sonny."

As soon as Mrs. Lane entered the kitchen, she hurriedly took out her phone and sent a message to Zachary.

(Mr. Zachary, Ms. Stone is here. Missus asked her to stay for lunch, and she agreed.) Zachary transferred the money to Serenity after his meeting and went through several important documents. He was just about to pack up and leave work early to have lunch with his wife when he received the message from Mrs. Lane. He instantly felt as if he was doused in a basin of ice water, chilling him from head to toe.

"Elisa Stone, you really are like a ghost haunting us."

She was either pestering him or hogging his wife. Tough luck for both of them to have met Elisa in this life. Zachary tossed the car keys back on the table and sat back down. Elisa was in Serenity's store, so he naturally could not go.

Ring ring ring... His phone rang. It was from his grandmother.

"Nana."

“Zack, Elisa is in Serenity’s shop, so don’t go over for lunch.”

After a moment of silence, Zachary asked, “How do you know?”

“I missed my granddaughter-in-law and wanted to visit her, but I saw Elisa’s car parked in front of the store, so I quickly slipped away.”

Old Mrs. York sounded downhearted.

With Elisa in the store, she could not even spend time with her granddaughter-in-law.

“It’s all your fault Zack. If not for you, I wouldn’t have to sneak around like this. It’s like I’m a thief.”

Zachary was silent for a moment. “Nana, I haven’t even gotten mad at Elisa hogging my wife, but you’re blaming it on me?” “Oh, did you just say ‘my wife’? Did you two get closer? When will I be able to hold my great-granddaughter soon? “Tell Serenity that our family doesn’t have enough daughters and let her be the first to give me a fat and chubby great granddaughter like her. Make sure she doesn’t turn out to be like you, or she won’t be cute.”.

It would be fine if it was a great-grandson like Zachary. Boys were colder and gave people a more dignified aura. However, it would not be cute for a girl to have an expressionless face.

Old Mrs. York already disdained her eldest grandson’s stoic and icy look. She did not want to have a great-granddaughter who was just as cold as he was.

Chapter 372

Zachary said after a brief pause, “Nana, you really do think in the long run. Tell your sons to put in the effort and give you a granddaughter instead. It might be faster that way.”

Old Mrs. York instantly laughed and scolded him, “If your grandfather was still alive, would you say that it’ll be quicker for us to try for a daughter instead? Your parents, aunts, and uncles are already old. How can they give birth to more children? They didn’t manage to get a daughter when they were young, so they can only pin their hopes for a granddaughter now.” “My third uncle and aunt are only in their forties. I think they can still try.”

If his third uncle and aunt were here, they would say, “Zachary, you traitor!”

“Are you busy now?”

“I’m on the phone with my Nana.”

“Look, that’s what I mean. You’re not cute at all. You’re not busy, right? If you’re not, I’ll go to the office to find you. Let’s go shopping.” Zachary was at a loss for words.

“I’m working, Nana.”

“The company won’t close down even without you. I’m asking you to come shopping with me for your own good. You have to get used to shopping with women. Only then will you have the patience to accompany Serenity. It's an opportunity for you to gain experience, but you don't know how to appreciate my good intentions."

The corners of Zachary's mouth twitched, and he said in exasperation, "Tell Callum to go with you. I have a lunch appointment at noon."

"Didn't you cancel it?"

He was silent for a moment and said, "My wife is currently being occupied, so I have no choice but to carry on with the lunch appointment."

"Haha, you rascal! Look at yourself! What did I say?"

Zachary was speechless.

"Fine, I won't take up any more of your time. I'll ask your third brother to have a stroll with me. Out of all your brothers and cousins, your third cousin brother is the most gifted at talking. I don't have to worry about being bored with him around."

Old Mrs. York hung up the phone when she was done talking. She managed to gain something today. At the very least, she learned that her eldest grandson was starting to be enlightened.

She sighed and thought, 'I got so worried about that brat's lifelong happiness that my hair's turning gray.' Zachary stared at his phone for a moment and finally sent a message to Serenity, telling her that he had to eat with a client at noon and could not go over. An instant reply came from Serenity.

Serenity: (OK.) Zachary's expression fell.

'Am I that unwelcomed to go over for lunch with her?

'She forgot whose wife she is now that she has Elisa to accompany her.'

The petty and jealous man forgot what he had stressed over himself several times.

He said he would never be a green-eyed monster, but he was now feeling exactly that because of Elisa.

In fact, he could have called Clive and told him to bring Elisa back. However, he was afraid if he did so, Elisa would find out that Serenity was his wife.

He leaned back on the black swivel chair and frowned tightly. He finally knew what it was like to shoot himself in the foot.

After moping about for a little while, he put away his gloom and picked up the phone to call Wiltspoon Hotel to arrange the delivery of a few of his wife's favorite dishes over to her.

She invited a guest for lunch, so he should add some good food to the spread.

Serenity had no clue that her asking Elisa to eat in the store was the reason Zachary could not come over.

She and Jasmine packed up the items that Elisa bought. The students were almost out of class, so the shop's patrons would not be able to move about freely if the items were piled up there.

Elisa, on the other hand, was playing with Sonny in her arms. "Sonny, Sonny." Olivia's shrill voice was heard suddenly. Serenity's expression turned sullen.

Chapter 373

Olivia soon walked in while holding Chelsea's third child.

Chelsea was not with her. She probably went back to work.

"Sonny, Lucas is here to play with you."

Olivia called out to Sonny while holding her other grandson. "Serenity, Ms. Sox." She smiled and greeted Serenity and Jasinine. She glanced at them a few more times when they saw the two packing up.

Her attention was soon drawn to Elisa.

Elisa did not put Sonny down and asked him, "Who is she, Sonny?"

Serenity straightened up and said in a light tone, "Why are you here, Aunty?" Then, she told Elisa, "She's my sister's mother-in-law and Sonny's grandmother." She emphasized on the word "grandmother".

Elisa looked at Lucas, who Olivia was holding, then looked at Sonny. Sonny only greeted his grandmother once and nothing else. He was obviously not close to his grandmother. She guessed the relationship between Liberty and her mother-in-law was not pleasant.

"Sonny usually has no playmates, so I went back and brought Lucas over today to play with him."

Olivia explained briefly. When her grandson tried to break free from her to play with the two big boxes of toys, she let go and let Lucas grab the toys by himself.

"They're mine."

Little children were protective over what belonged to them.

Sonny was no exception.

Lucas liked to snatch his things the most. If he refused, Lucas would hit him. If he cried, his aunt would say that he could not cry because he was a boy. She even said that Lucas was just playing with his toys and would not take them away.

Sonny did not believe his aunt's words.

He was young and could not understand many things, but Sonny knew that Lucas would take along his toys every time the latter left. Even if Lucas did not take them away, he would destroy the toys.

Sonny slipped down from Elisa's arms to the floor and went to pull Lucas, not letting the latter play with his toys. "Sonny, don't push your brother. There are so many toys. You two brothers can play together."

When Olivia saw Sonny pushing Lucas, she instinctively went to pull Sonny away, not letting him push Lucas.

The three girls saw what Olivia did and felt a little angry.

Elisa was the closest to Sonny. She stood up and pulled Sonny back from Olivia's hands. Then, she pulled the box of toys that had not been packed yet closer to her. Her pretty face was cold as she said, "Lady, how do you teach your children? Taking other people's things without their consent is stealing.

"Besides, I bought all these for Sonny, so they belong to Sonny. If he doesn't want to let Lucas play with them, then Lucas doesn't get to. If Lucas wants to play, he can go buy them himself."

When Lucas saw that Elisa refused him playing with the toys, he immediately lay on the ground and rolled around, crying while coughing

"Lucas, Lucas!"

Olivia hurriedly pulled her grandson up and asked Serenity, "Who is that woman, Serenity? Why is she bickering with a child? Sonny and Lucas are close cousins. What's wrong with Lucas playing with his brother's toys?"

Serenity's expression was sullen, and her tone was not pleasant. "Sonny's toys belong to him. They can only play together if Sonny is willing to let Lucas play. If he's not willing, then Lucas can't play."

"Sonny was raised badly by you two sisters. He doesn't know how to love his own brother." Olivia accused angrily.

Chapter 374

Serenity said coldly, "Who is Lucas? What has he got to do with me? Sonny is my nephew. I can't possibly let him suffer to coax someone else's child. What did Sonny do wrong? It's your other grandson who was raised badly. He always bullies Sonny, steals his toys, beats him, and brings his toys back home. You're their grandmother, right? Are you blind?"

"Or is this what you usually teach him? Olivia, Lucas is your grandson, but so is Sonny. You're too biased!"

Olivia was speechless. She responded, "Sonny is still young, Serenity. Besides, Sonny has so many toys. What's wrong with giving Lucas one or two to play with? Look, Sonny, your brother is crying. Share some toys with him to play together, okay?"

Sonny hesitated.

Elisa said to him, "Sonny, you don't have to force yourself if you don't want to share. If he likes to cry, he can cry as much as he wants. Since he wants to roll around and clean the floor, we'll let him do as he pleases. It'll save your Aunt Seren the need to mop the floor."

Sonny said softly, "Lucas is bad."

Lucas left a bad impression on him. "If Lucas is bad, then don't play with him. Lady, please take your precious grandson out. My friend's store is small and not spacious enough. Take him outside, and he can roll around as much as he pleases."

Serenity was not willing to let her nephew suffer to satisfy someone else's child. Elisa was no different. She was the type to do whatever she wanted. If someone dared to grumble about it, she was always ready to give them a tight slap. "Be good, Lucas. Get up and let's go. Don't care about his toys. Grandma will buy you something that's more fun."

Olivia was infuriated by Elisa and Serenity, but she was also feeling distressed over her grandson rolling on the ground. She squatted and pulled her grandson while coaxing him.

"No, I want Sonny's toys!"

Lucas was spoiled rotten and insisted on having Sonny's toys.

"Come on, Lucas. Sonny's toys aren't fun. Grandma will buy you something better, okay?" "No! I want Sonny's! I want Sonny's!" Lucas, who was pulled up by Olivia, lay back down on the ground and continued to wail and roll around, coughing from time to time.

Olivia was angry, distressed, and helpless.

Serenity did not like her and neither did she like Serenity. Besides, those toys did belong to Sonny, and Sonny was also her grandson.

Suddenly, Lucas stopped rolling around. He got up from the ground, rushed to Sonny, and purposely coughed hard at Sonny. Serenity took a step forward and picked Lucas up before shoving him in Olivia's arms. She said coldly, "Olivia, please take him away now. He's making too much noise."

Elisa hurriedly drew tissues to help Sonny wipe his mouth and face. Lucas spat a little at Sonny when he coughed at the latter, which disgusted Elisa.

Now in his grandmother's arms, Lucas yelled, "My mom said I'm sick. As long as I cough at Sonny, he'll be sick like me, and Aunt Liberty can't go work."

Olivia quickly covered her grandson's mouth, but it was too late.

Serenity turned around instantly to get a broom to chase the pair of grandmother and grandson out. Olivia saw that she was in a bad situation and ran outside with her grandson.

Elisa and Jasmine were in sync. Both of them took off their shoes and threw them at Olivia's back.

They were both wearing high heels, and all those shoes hit Olivia's back. Olivia was in pain, but she did not dare to stop and fled with her grandson in her arms.

Serenity came out with a broom and saw that Olivia had already fled with Lucas to the road outside her shop. She did not chase after them since there were too many vehicles on the road. She would get in trouble if they got hit by a car while being chased by her.

Elisa and Jasmine both hopped out, picked up their shoes, and put them back on. Elisa asked, "Serenity, is that really Sonny's grandmother? She's too vicious!"

Chapter 375

Serenity's expression was gloomy. "I also wished that she was his step-grandmother. That way, it would not be that hurtful. Unfortunately, she's his real grandmother."

Her nephew's grandmother and her own grandmother were comparable to each other.

After a pause, she added, "That old woman brought Lucas over so he could infect Sonny. If Sonny gets sick, my sister will be too worried to go to work. She'll definitely take time off to take care of Sonny, but she has just started her job. If she keeps taking time off, it'll be difficult for her to keep this job."

The Brown family was really doing everything to keep her sister from returning to the workplace. Now that her sister had a job, she should bring forward her plans to divorce. The earlier she divorced, the faster she could get a new lease on life. "Serenity, why does your sister's mother-in-law not want her to go to work?" Elisa asked.

Serenity walked back with the broom. When she saw Sonny walk out, she bent down to pick her nephew up with one hand, and continued walking as she explained, "Her upstanding sister-in-law, Chelsea, wants to send her two children to a school in the city. The house my sister lives in is in the school's catchment area. Chelsea had her eyes set on that house.

"She wants my scumbag brother-in-law to transfer ownership of that house to her name so it's convenient for her two children to enroll into a better high school, but she lives in a unit provided by – the company. She also has to go to work, so it's inconvenient for her to pick up and drop off her children. She wants my sister to help with the school run, cook for them, and help them with their homework. My sister refused.

"My sister finally found a job and went to work, but they came up with such a trick to force her into agreeing to help. Her mother-in-law is completely biased toward her sister-in-law. Even my brother-in-law is the same. He always helps his sister.

"In the past, they treated my sister very well, and she thought she had married the right person. It wasn't that bad after the marriage either, but after she gave birth to Sonny, they started revealing their true colors. Maybe they thought it was fine to do so because my sister and her husband have a child now. They keep saying that my sister doesn't do anything at home and only raises the child. And that she doesn't earn money but only knows how to spend money. They also say that it's useless that my sister studied so much when she can't even earn money."

Elisa was silent for a while. "The people in my circle all say that I'm awful, but compared to your sister's in-laws, I think that I'm a saint. At least, I don't have bad intentions. I just have a bad temper sometimes.

The encounter just now really opened her eyes.

It was no wonder Sonny was taken care of by his aunt despite him having grandparents.

Jasmine chimed in, "You've only met one of them. If you deal with the Brown family for a long time, it'll open your eyes to a whole new world. They're completely absurd. The entire family is especially good at pretending. Liberty and Sonny's father have known each other for twelve years. They dated for seven years and have been married for more than three years, but they were able to pretend all the while superbly."

Elisa felt chills down her spine as she listened.

They could probably win awards with their acting. It was no wonder Liberty was tricked so badly. If it were Elisa, she would most likely be tricked too. "Serenity, that Lucas boy coughed on Sonny. Will Sonny be infected?"

Elisa touched Sonny's little face and added tenderly, "He's so cute and smart. Why don't his grandparents dote on him? Sonny, call me Aunty in the future. I promise that no one will dare to bully you again."

Sonny stretched out his hands for Elisa to hug him.

Elisa immediately picked him up. "You're such an adorable child. My mom would love you if she sees you."

Her mother was looking forward to her brother and sister-in-law having a child, but unfortunately, the couple had no plans to have a baby yet. Serenity put the broom back and said, "Sonny's immune system is strong. He hasn't been in contact with Lucas for long, so he should not have gotten infected." Olivia deliberately brought Lucas over with the intention of infecting Sonny with Lucas's cold. Serenity did not hide what happened from her sister.

When Liberty came over at noon, Serenity told her about it after lunch.

Liberty was furious.

She wrapped her arms around her son and said angrily, "I don't expect them to take care of Sonny for me, but I can't believe they did this to us just so their other grandchildren can go to a good school.

Chapter 376

"Liberty, now that you have a job, you can ask Hank for a divorce." Serenity advised her sister to file for a divorce as soon as possible.

Jasmine and Elisa both echoed, "Divorce early and start anew."

Liberty looked down at her son's tender little face and nodded firmly. "I'll wait for Hank to get off work tonight and ask him for a divorce."

She already had the evidence of Hank's affair.

When she first got the evidence, she did not immediately fall out with him because she was still unemployed and without an income. It would not be conducive for her to fight for the custody of her son.

The New Year is around the corner. Initially, she wanted to wait until she got her first paycheck before bringing up the divorce. However, her mother-in-law's behavior today made her unable to tolerate it anymo...

She could bear with it no matter how they treated her, but she could not tolerate them harming Sonny!

When her mother-in-law and sister-in-law came over two days ago, she heard Chelsea telling Hank that Lucas had a flu and had not recovered yet. Her father-in-law was worried that Lucas would infect Sonny, so he did not let Chelsea bring Lucas along.

She did not expect her mother-in-law to go back while she was at work and bring the still-sick Lucas back with the intention of letting him infect Sonny with the flu. They wanted her to be out of commission due to worry, or better yet, lose her job entirely.

That was truly a vicious plan.

All because they did not want her to go to work so she could help take care of Chelsea's children?

In their dreams!

"Liberty."

Elisa looked at the chubby Liberty and felt that the latter gave her a sense of familiarity. That sense gave her a strong feeling of wanting to be close to Liberty.

'How strange.

'Were Serenity, Liberty, and I sisters in our past life?'

Elisa was someone who acted according to her heart. She liked to be close to the Hunt sisters, so she followed her wishes and did not overthink it. She said, "Liberty, tell me if you need to file a lawsuit for the divorce. I'll get the best lawyer to help you with it.

"You have to fight to the end for what you deserve. Don't let them off easy. Also, you have to fight for Sonny's custody. You can't give Sonny to them when he has such a bad grandmother."

Liberty said gratefully, "Thank you so much, Ms. Stone. I'll do my best to get custody of Sonny."

Her son was the reason she was working so hard.

Elisa said boldly, "Sonny calls me Aunty, so he's my nephew now. I'll protect you and your son's future. I'd like to see who would dare bully the people under my wing."

Jasmine laughed. "Elisa, if you lived in ancient times, you'd definitely be a valiant female warrior." Elisa blushed and said, "Don't flatter me, Jasmine. I know very well what kind of person I am. I take first impressions very seriously. If I don't like how a person looks, I'll dislike them even if they're from the Stone family too."

Otherwise, where did her reputation of being wild and capricious come from? "That's true. It's fate that brings people together." Jasmine took her best friend's arm. "Serenity and I are linked by fate. It's a shame that I'm not a man." Serenity could not help but laugh. With her sister, Jasmine, and Elisa supporting her, Liberty decided to bring up the divorce to Hank at night.

Chapter 377

Sonny soon fell asleep in his mother's arms.

Liberty took the opportunity of him sleeping and handed him over to her sister. She was extremely grateful that Serenity and her husband hired Mrs. Lane to help her take good care of Sonny.

She could not stand on her own feet yet, but she would remember Serenity and Zachary's kindness. She would repay them well when she could stand on her own again.

Liberty then went to work.

Elisa received a phone call from a friend. The others did not know what the friend said, but after Elisa took the call, she said goodbye to Serenity and Jasmine before leaving in a hurry.

"Jasmine, you watch the shop with Sonny first. I'll take Mrs. Lane to buy some bedding products."

Serenity had not forgotten that she had to buy a bed, cabinets, and bedding for Mrs. Lane.

"Sure."

Jasmine agreed easily. Business would be idle until the students finished their classes in the evening.

She would always read novels to pass the time.

Mrs. Lane said, "Ms. Hunt, you can go out and buy it yourself. Sonny will need someone to look after him when he wakes up later."

Mrs. Lane was heartbroken for Sonny when she learned that he had such a grandmother.

In Elisa's words, why was he not doted on when he was so cute?

Mrs. Lane thought, 'Liberty's in-laws treated Sonny this way despite him being a boy. I don't know what would happen if she gave birth to a girl instead. 'Fortunately, she's getting divorced.

'It's better to leave.

'She should have divorced a long time ago with that kind of family.'

Since Mrs. Lane insisted on staying, Serenity drove her car out by herself to help Mrs. Lane buy a bed and cabinet.

She spent an entire afternoon shopping. After rushing back to the store in the evening and bracing through the peak hours, her sister returned from work to pick Sonny up. Jasmine went home too, so it was just Mrs. Lane and Serenity guarding the store.

Half an hour later, Zachary came.

"You're not working overtime?"

Serenity saw her husband walk in with calm and steady steps. His aura was so imposing that she was a little mesmerized.

This man's face was indeed too handsome. He was full of masculine charm.

"I got off work after finishing everything on hand." "Mr. York," Mrs. Lane greeted him. Zachary nodded at her and pulled a chair over to sit in front of Serenity.

Serenity withdrew her admiring eyes and started to work on her crafts again.

Zachary was slightly disappointed.

When he came in, he clearly saw the girl looking at him with adoration. However, after just exchanging a few words, she resumed her crafting.

It seemed like his personal charm was not enough. He failed to charm Serenity and make her swoon.

After looking at her for a long time, he asked in a warm and deep voice, "How's your online store doing recently?" "In short, it's great. Long story, it's really great!" Zachary was amused by her answer. "It's good if business is doing well, but don't work too hard. If you get tired..." "My heart will ache.

He did not say the last few words.

He was a little annoyed. Why could he not be brazen and say whatever he wanted to say?

Perhaps it was because he was inexperienced. Who should he ask to gain experience?

Chapter 378

Unfortunately, the handful of close friends he had were just as inexperienced as he was.

He could not ask Nana for a few tricks in private either. She would laugh at him.

He thought of how he stubbornly said to Nana that he would not chase after his wife. Now, he was feeling his cheeks burn in embarrassment.

However, he did not actually have to chase after his wife. Serenity was already his wife!

"Thank you for your concern, Mr. York. I'll be mindful."

Serenity's dexterous hands were nimbly crafting a car. "Mr. York, you take Mrs. Lane home first. Also, don't forget to take Snowball and the others with you."

Zachary's expression tightened. "I won't take the three furballs."

"Then let Mrs. Lane take them. The store's not busy now, so you two can't help me much here anyway. Why not go home and let Mrs. Lane clean up her room?" "You're chasing me away!" Serenity glanced up at him and then looked down again to continue working. She said in amusement, "Mr. York, I realized that you're quite a sensitive person. I'm telling the truth, not chasing you away. Tell me. What can you do to help me by staying here?"

Zachary tensed his face and did not speak.

He did not know how to weave crafts.

If he helped her to sell books, she would say that his face was too stern and would scare the students away.

Zachary had to admit that he really could not help her here. 'Why did Nana find me such a capable wise? I don't even have the chance to show off!!

Zachary grumbled about his nana in his heart.

If Old Mrs. York was here, she would say, "Serenity and you signed a six-month agreement and will divorce once the time is up anyway."

Zachary fell silent

Was she really his nana?

Mrs. Lane quickly said, "Ms. Hunt, I only brought a few sets of clothes over. There's nothing I need to unpack, so there's no rush to go back."

Since the two were unwilling to leave, Serenity did not say more.

Mrs. Lane hid behind a bookshelf in the corner and read a book so as not to be the third wheel.

However, her ears were perked up as she listened carefully to the conversation between the young couple. If something went wrong, she could step in to save the day. Zachary was arrogant, clumsy in speech, and had no skills in appealing to a girl. Even if he realized that he cared for Serenity, he would not be able to express it to her with sweet words.

Mrs. Lane felt it would be more practical to pray for pigs to sprout wings and start flying, rather than counting on Zachary to sweet talk into making Serenity happy.

Zachary silently watched Serenity work.

Serenity suddenly asked him, "Mr. York, your big boss is the heir of the York family. Is he married?"

Zachary's dark eyes flickered. He did not immediately answer and waited for her to continue.

"Everyone in Wiltspoon knows that Elisa likes your boss, and I've given her a few tips on how to pursue him. Unexpectedly, she came over this morning and said that she saw Mr. York wore a wedding band on the ring finger of his left hand.

"Since he's your company's CEO, do you have any insider information? Did Mr. York really get married?"

Zachary looked at his bare fingers. He only wore the ring when he was faced with Elisa.

"We don't have a definite answer to that either, but I was fortunate enough to be able to attend the meeting today. Although I sat at the very end of the table and was far from the boss, I have excellent eyesight, so I did see him wear a ring on his left finger."

Serenity looked up at him, met his dark eyes, and asked nosily, "Do you know who his wife is?"

Zachary shook his head. "No. Although I'm one of the executives of the company, I'm not one of his trusted aides, so I'm not privy to matters like that."

After a pause, he added, "Someone asked Mr. Bucham about it upon hearing the news. Mr. Bucham is my boss's closest friend.

"However, Mr. Bucham didn't say who the boss's wife was either. He only said that the boss was indeed married and spoiled his wife very much."

In the corner, Mrs. Lane wanted to burst out laughing.

'Mr. Zachary, you sure know how to paint yourself in a good light.

'It's as clear as day that you're lying to your wife, but you're saying that you spoil her...'

Chapter 379

she had to apologize to Elisa.

Mr. York in fact had a wife.

Elisa should give up.

She was a good girl. Serenity hoped that Elisa could let go of her feelings for Mr. York as soon as possible, and look for her happiness that belonged to her.

"Since Mr. York is married, why wasn't there any news?"

Even Elisa did not know about it.

"It should be to protect his wife. Think about it. Our boss is young, handsome, promising, and rich. Any woman who sees him in real life would fall head over heels for his charm.

"Although no other woman except Ms. Stone has the courage to openly confess to him and pursue him, it doesn't mean that there aren't people who adore him. He's worried that exposing his beloved wife's identity and appearance would bring trouble for her. He's also afraid that someone would hurt his wife while he's not paying attention."

"I don't know about the others, but Elisa is definitely not that kind of person. She's a good girl who's misunderstood to the core by the outside world. Since Mr. York doesn't like her, I guess they're only destined to be just friends." Serenity sighed. "I hope she can get over it soon. There are plenty of good men in the world. There's no need to get so hung up on Mr. York."

Zachary did not say anything.

"By the way, have you seen your boss's face before? Is he really that handsome? Is he old?" Zachary's mouth twitched. "Why does she keep thinking of me as an old man? 'I'm only thirty. I'm still young for a man.' "He's undeniably handsome and young. In short, he's really good looking and has a lot of masculine charm. If I were a woman, I'd like my boss too." Serenity smiled cheekily. "How do you compare to him?" Zachary was silent for a moment. "I think, maybe, I look a little better than him."

She laughed. "Are you sure you're not just flattering yourself? I haven't seen Mr. York before, so I can't help you compare."

In the same corner, Mrs. Lane covered her mouth and was laughing so hard that her stomach hurt.

'So that's how Mr. Zachary acts in front of the missus.'

"Serenity, are you interested in Mr. York?"

"No. He's someone I'll never meet in my life. Why would I be interested in him? If not for Elisa always gossiping about him in front of me, I wouldn't even know that he exists."

Zachary stopped talking.

“By the way, will they hold a wedding? I think Wiltspoon’s entertainment journalists will be worked to the bone if they have a wedding.”

After a moment of silence, he said, “Mr. Bucham said that our boss spoils his wife. A man who spoils his wife won’t let her suffer. He’ll – definitely hold a grand wedding. We just don’t know when the wedding will be held. Maybe they haven’t picked a good day yet.”

Serenity hummed. “Yeah, it’s important to choose a good date for the wedding.” “Also, Jasmine is willing to meet with your colleague. Could you arrange a time for them to meet?” “Saturday afternoon.”

He was Josh’s slave driver during workdays and the latter could not spare the time to go on a blind date.

There was no need to work on weekends, so time could be arranged then. Serenity had no problems with the timing. After the handmade copper wire car was completed, she stopped working.

Seeing this, Zachary asked somewhat apologetically, “Am I disturbing you here?”

Chapter 380

Gu Lingfei: Married at First Sight Novel Chapter 380 It was likely that she usually closed the store late to rush her crafts.

Serenity looked at him. “You don’t have that much of an impact.”

Zachary was speechless.

“My sister will be bringing up the divorce to Hank tonight. I’m a little worried.”

“Shall I go there with you?”

Serenity looked at the time and said, “Hank isn’t back at this time. He usually only returns late at night.”

In the past, the sisters were stupid and thought that Hank only returned home late because he was busy socializing after being promoted to be a manager. However, he was actually spending time with his lover!

“Have faith in Liberty. She will take care of it.”

Zachary could only comfort Serenity this way.

After a moment of silence, she said, “I keep having this feeling that it won’t go smoothly. The Brown family is too shameless. You don’t know this, but they tried to make Sonny sick in order to keep my sister from going to work.”

She told Zachary what Olivia had done.

Zachary’s expression was dark after hearing the full story.

“Is Sonny all right?” “We don’t know if he’ll be infected yet. My sister said that Lucas had a viral flu which is contagious to other children. Sonny is usually healthy and has a strong immune system. I hope he doesn’t get caught up in their horrid plan.”

“Tell Liberty to call us if anything happens. She has to fight to the end during the divorce, especially when it comes to Sonny’s custody. Who knows how they’ll abuse Sonny if we leave him to them.”

Hank had a new lover and was busy at work, so he would not have time to take care of the child. He would let his parents look after Sonny.

His parents had been helping Chelsea to take care of her children, so they were biased toward Chelsea’s children. It would be strange if Sonny were to be cared for well by biased grandparents.

Serenity nodded. All of them had said the same thing to Liberty.

“When they divorce... Liberty’s life will definitely get better.”

In fact, what he wanted to say was, ‘When they divorce, I’ll deal with Hank and make him lose everything. I’ll make the entire Brown family suffer the same treatment as the Hunt family. They’ll lose their jobs and businesses.

‘Also, since Hank is so fond of Jessica, I’ll encourage them from behind the scenes. When Jessica marries into the Brown family, I’ll let her have a taste of how her predecessor suffered.

‘They claim their love to be true, but I’d like to see if Jessica stays with Hank when the latter has nothing left.’ Initially, Zachary did not think of messing with Hank. After all, Liberty still had to live with Hank. Then, when Serenity and he argued because of a misunderstanding, he did not bother even though he knew of Hank’s affair.

Now...

As soon as his sister-in-law divorced and broke away from the Brown family, he would not need to show any mercy. Although York Corporation and Waltham Electronics had no business dealings, they could be considered as competitors. That was because there was a subsidiary under York Corporation that was sworn enemies with Waltham Electronics.

Zachary could not punish Hank through the boss of Waltham Electronics.

However, he could forcefully acquire Waltham Electronics and integrate it with York Corporation’s subsidiary. That way, Hank would be the meat on Zachary’s chopping board, completely at his mercy.

He would let Hank taste regret for the rest of his life!

“As long as my sister leaves the Brown family, her life will only get better. Maybe she’ll even find a second love and live a truly blissful life. Living better than Hank is the best revenge she can have against him.”

Serenity also hoped that her sister’s life would improve after the divorce.

More than that, she hoped that Hank’s life would spiral downward after the divorce. Cheating men should suffer from retribution. As for the mistress, Jessica, she would soon understand that she could not always be young and beautiful. One day, she would become a faded old woman too!
